Greatest Success In Fair History

Over Seven Thousand People Visited the Fair Grounds on Thursday—Record Breaking Crowds—Firemen's Day Friday—Greatest Exhibits Ever Shown—Roaring Success From Start to Finish.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL FAIR BEST EVER—FINE WEATHER

The Sixteenth Annual Mc Kean County Fair and Races is now a matter of history. Judged from any standpoint at all—number and excellence of exhibits, attendance, entertainment offered—this event of 1920 held last week may be considered the most brilliant success that has ever rewarded the efforts of the officials of the Fair Association.

It would have been impossible to have asked for finer weather. Not a drop of rain fell the four days of the fair and there was plenty of sunshine and just enough breeze to keep it cool. These perfect weather conditions encouraged hundreds of car owners to motor to the grounds from points all over this and nearby counties.

Thursday was as usual the big day. It is estimated that about 9,000 were on the grounds that day, but so perfectly was the crowd handled that no difficulty of any kind developed. The Midway was filled to the limit, likewise the grandstand, and the space within the racetrack. Hundreds of cars were parked both inside and outside of the grounds.

Friday was also well attended, this being due in part to the fact that it was Firemen's Day, and practically all fire departments in the county had some representation on hand. The feature of their part of the program was the relay race which was won by the Smethport team—Livermore, Workley, Hull and Josephson.

More than usual attention was attracted to the unusually fine exhibits in the departments which had quarters under the grandstand. Notable for both quantity and quality were the exhibits of fruit, canned goods, flowers, fancy work, agricultural products and especially the display of the Juvenile department. Crowds were constantly examining with admiration the evidence on hand of up-to-date farming and excellent handiwork.

The Midway seemed to satisfy better than usual. The entertainments offered by the Bloch Shows fully lived up to the excellent press notices which preceded the arrival of that organization. Faced by real difficulties in transportation, the carnival company did not arrive until late Tuesday afternoon, but they immediately set to work and in remarkably short time had their eqdipment on the grounds and set up.

Concessions and tents housing various sorts of entertainments stretched on both sides of the Midway from the gates beyond the grandstand and one-third of the way to the cattle barns. All seemed to have very fair patronage and in fact the manager of the carnival company was so delighted with the treatment accorded him that he expressed his determination to be back next year, being willing even to sign a contract to that effect to take his chances on the weather, and to pay over a sum of money guaranteeing his presence.

The racing program was filled out in every event, some races having as high as eight entries. In every case there was real competition and no evidence of the previous understanding frequently entered into by owners, which inevitably spoil the sport. The total of horses on the grounds far exceeded the number that have been attending the near-by fairs, largely due to the influence and hard work of the Fair President and Secretary, R. W. Hilton and H. J. Rice respectively.

The musical end of the program was ably taken care of by the newly re-organized Smethport band. Their work was of a high order and came as a pleasant surprise to the citizens of the town who had about begun to despair of this organization.

The free acts were all and more than was said of them. Some of the cleverest and most thrilling stunts ever witnessed on the platform in front of the grandstand were furnished several times during the afternoon between the races.

A particularly pleasant feature of this year's fair was the total absence of any kind of rowdyism. The county officials were early on hand to keep out the gambling devices and the cheapor sorts of entertainment. Order was preserved within the grounds and the crowd faultlessly handled by a detail of the State Constabulary. No accident of any kind either at the grounds or on the temporary bridge over Potato Creek marred the four days of enjoyment.

Among the exhibits from farmers the O. K. Farm showed wonderful production.

Lieut. Emery did a land office business with his aeroplane every day. He was constantly to be seen circling about over the grounds with one or more passengers, who were able to enjoy with him either plain or fancy sailing.

Mr. J. P. Connors of McKeane, Pa., sold the good trotter, J. R. Frisco to Denby Cigar Company of Wellsville, N. Y. The horse won the 2.30 race here at the fair last Thursday.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS, FOOTBALL SEASON

Saturday the high school foot ball team plays its first game of the year at Bradord against the high school team there. About fifteen of the boys will make the trip and the line-up will be chosen probably from the following: Denning and Hull centers, Kramer, Monheimer and Cochran ends, McCarty and Fitch, guards, R. Hamilton and Karlen tackles, Allison, Curran, Coylostro and Warner backs.

Boyd McCarty, who is serving as manager, has already scheduled five games for this season, these being in addition to the one game with Bradford, two games each with Eldred and Coudersport. He is in communication with Portville, Johnsonburg and several others of the nearby teams and will have his schedule complete shortly. Neither Mt. Jewett nor Port Allegany has a team this year and for this reason the boys have to look farther away for their competition.

COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW TO BE ENFORCED

In accordance with definite instructions from the state department of education at Harrisburg, every effort will be bent this year to the enforcement of those parts of the school code having to do with compulsory attendance of school for those under 16.

The law requires the regular attendance of all pupils in the school over the age of 6 and under the age of 16 every day of the term, absence being permissible only under extraordinary cases, such as sickness of the pupil, sickness or death in the family, and the like, and in these cases only when the pupil brings a written excuse from the parent or guardian, stating the reason for absence from school.

Special attention is called to the last statement; the law will not permit the acceptance by the school authorities of the mere excuse that the presence of the child was required at home. The reason must be clearly stated or the teachers will not be able to accept the excuse as valid; no leeway is left them in the matter, for the law is very clear on this point.

Provision is made for the enforcement of the law in case that any pupil between the stated ages is absent more than three times illegally. The truant officer will be informed of the delinquency and he will in turn report to the parents or guardians of the offender. They will be given three days in which to settle the difficulty and upon their failure to do so, will be called before the court and fined.

To force the various schools of the state to take this matter up in all seriousness, the state department is making their appropriations contingent upon [illegible] attention to the law by school boards and school faculties. The local board have taken up this matter carefully and expect to do all required of them by the state, even going the department one better by insisting upon regular attendance by all pupils even over the age limit of 16.

Never had Any Strikes Or Trouble of Any Kind

Harrisburg, Pa., September 20.—At least one state of the Union can boast of no strikes. The State Industrial Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, has received the following letter from the attorney general of North Dakota:

"North Dakota has never had any strikes and we have never been troubled with matters of this kind."

The communication was sent to Otto T. Mallery, chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee of the Department of Labor and Industry, in conection with the collection of data from all states so that th ecommittee may define a strike or lockout.

Thief Preys on Army as It Prays for Honesty

Hornell, Sept. 23.—"Oh, Lord, touch the hearts of these people—make them good and honest men and women," prayed Captain William Parsons of the Corning branch of the Salvation Army at a street meeting here last evening. Captain Parsons had come to help the officers here conduct a reform campaign. While he was praying so devoutly a mean thief raided the Salvationist's auto and stole two robes and a headlight. Captain Parsons reported the theft to the police and said he would pray that the stolen articles be returned.

SMETHPORT WINS ANOTHER GAME FROM EAST END

East Smethport Bows to Harder Hitting Jewett Next Sunday

Smethport's claim to the base ball championship of the valley was put to the test last Sunday before a small but interested crowd when the gentlemen from the East End undertook to turn the tables of the contest earlier this month which gave the local team their proud title. Their try, however, was unsuccessful and they retired at the poorer end of a 15-9 score.

All of the characteristics that have been part of the games for the past few weeks were in evidence; brilliant playing alternated with loose, good batting with poor, quick thinking with stupid. Anything you wanted was at hand though not perhaps in the proportion desired.

Undoubtedly the most light was shed from the umpire's deck, or whatever it is that he occupies. Larry Scanlon presided and found the going pretty rough; determined to be absolutely impartial in his decisions, he was at times surprised and hurt to find now one team, now the other, and at still other times the crowd willing to stand by him. But he was adamant; tears, threats, arguments—all were tried with no avail. When Larry's mind was made up, she stuck; she was not in her way, and refused to be moved.

Hull was in the box for Smethport and never was in really great danger after his teammates took the lead in the scoring in the second inning. Enough hit at times fairly hard, the blows were kept pretty well scattered and the most of the runs scored were due to the errors that put the men on base or permitted them to tally.

Stickles went most of the way for East Smethport; his support had an unfortunate way of cracking wide open in the middle and letting the whole Smethport team drive through. Fifteen runs is a goodly number to chalk up in nine innings, but at that the local men with a little better judgment on the paths might have added a few more.

Rumor has it that Mt. Jewett is to be here next Sudnay. There should be all kinds of action in a game between these two teams, for their rivalry is long-standing and is increased now by the fact that the Jewett boys have won the only game played this year.

RESULT OF POTATO CLUBS EXHIBITS

Of the 201 members of the Potato Clubs scattered over the country, 79 members succeeded in exhibiting their products. It is no doubt the best potato exhibit in club work in the State of Pennsylvania. It was not only an exhibit made up of 59 pecks of potatoes but potatoes of an excellent quality. Ten prizes were awarded as follows:

1. Leonard Moore, Port Allegany, $2.50; 2. Leon Sutley, Rixford, Pa. $2.00; 3. E. H. Hunter, Port Allegany, $1.50; 4. Joseph Stravino, Smethport, $1.00; 5. Walter Oleson, Smethport, 50c; 6. John Comes, Smethport, Pennsylvania Farmer; 7. Kenneth Scarfoss, Clermont, Pa., Pennsylvania farmer; 8. Emmett Griffin, Smethport, Pa. road, Pennsylvania farmer; 9. Violetta Van Sickle, Smethport Pa. road, Pennsylvania farmer; 10. Anthony Ross, Smethport, Pa., Pennsylvania farmer.

These boys and girls will be the future potato growers of McKean County and it is hoped that such work as this will cause them to do much better than their fathers.

DEATH OF FLORENCE MAE WALKER SHOCK TO THIS VICINITY

Florence Mae Walker, wife of Lynn Wiles Walker, who after a brief illness entered into rest at her home, 114 17th Street, Buffalo, N. Y., on Friday, September 17, aged 25 years 7 months and 13 days.

She was one of Smethport's beautiful girls, devoted to her church, home and friends. She graduated from the East Smethport school and entered high school in her sixteenth year, finally leaving after two years to become a nurse in Buffalo State Hospital, from which she graduated with honors in 1915. She was married May 16, 1917, to Mr. Lynn Wiles of Buffalo, who with one little girl, Florence, one week old, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walker, of East Smethport, her brother and sisters, Earl, Mabel, Noel, Floyd, Ruth and Howard, Mrs. James Tyler of Buffalo, survive her.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. E. Van Dyke at All Saints Chapel, East Smethport, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and she was laid to rest in Rose Hill cemetery.

Oh, all that are sad, take heart again.
You are not alone in your hour of pain.
The Father stoops from his throne above
He leaves us not when the storm beats high.
And we have safety for he is nigh.
Can it be trouble when he doth share?
Oh, rest in peace for your Lord doth care.

Doctors Say Amputation Is Necessary for Mr. Hull

Mr. John Hull, who has been in the hospital at Rochester, N. Y., for some time, for treatment for his foot is getting along nicely and feeling fine. The doctors claim Mr. Hull's foot will have to be amputated. It was hoped that he would not have to have this done, but all efforts were in vain. The many friends of this well known man wish him speedy recovery.

PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR'S GREAT FAIR

Delighted with the great success which remarked the return of the annual fair to their management, R. W. Hilton and his newly elected associates are already making plans for next year and are determined that the fair then shall surpass even this year's event by a wide margin.

In spite of the fact that heavy expenditure was necessary in order to put the grounds into good shape, such as the re-building of several of the sheds and barns, the association find themselves about a thousand dollars ahead of the game. With this start they feel that nothing is impossible to them another year.

One real advantage is found in the attitude of the horse owners toward the fair here. Always popular with these men by reason of his own interest in good horses, Mr. Hilton this year has won them even closer to him by the fair and square methods in which they were used. Satisfaction was expressed by all who brought strings of racers with them, and many were so pleased that they promised to be on hand the next fair.

As mentioned elsewhere, the concessioners were all so pleased with the management and the crowd in attendance at the fair that practically all have their plans laid for next year to be back.

Considerable improvement will be made to the material side of the grounds by way of new structures and the putting of the older ones in to first class shape. Present plans alone will insure the best ever for the public.

TENNIS TEAM WINS MEET AT WELLSVILLE

Last Wednesday afternoon four of the local tennis players—S. F. Redfield, W. A. Brownell, Dr. Long, and Robert Redfield, motored to Wellsville, N. Y., in the Redfield car and engaged the tennis club of that city in a dual meet, which resulted in a handsome victory for the local men.

Redfield and Brownell, as the first Smethport team, played Heward of Wellsville, and Richart of New York, as the better of the two opposing teams. The Richart named is a brother of the Richart who made such a splendid showing in the meet here in August. Both sets of the match Wednesday went to the Smethport pair, by a score of 6-3 and 6-0. A third set was later played and this too went to Smethport 6-1.

An interesting feature of this third set was the fact that the balls used were those that were used by Tilden and Johnson the week before at Forest Hills in deciding the championship of the United States.

Long and Redfield beat their men two out of three sets. The first set was won 6-4, the second was lost 2-6, but the local players came back strong in the last set and won out 6-0.

After the doubles matches two sets of singles were played for the entertainment of the Wellsville men, but they were not regularly scheduled and consequently were not counted in the results.

The match was played on the courts of the Wellsville Country Club where the Smethport party, consisting of Mrs. S. F. Redfield, Miss Mirabel Hamlin, Miss Grace Olmstead, and Robert Digel in addition to the members of the team, were entertained at dinner and at a dance later in the evening.

An effort is being made to schedule the crack Ridgway pair Hall and Cuthbert, for a meet here some Saturday in the near future, to consist probably a doubles match and perhaps a singles match. These Ridgway men have been regular attendants at the annual Northwestern Penna. championships tournament and are always looked upon as dangerous contenders.

RESULTS OF STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

The Stock Judging Contest which was held at the Fair grounds on Wednesday, the 15th, had the least number taking part in it of any of our previous contests but nevertheless it was very interesting one.

The first prize was won by J. Schoonover of Port Allegany, Pa., who had taken part two previous years and who has been studying agriculture in the high school at Port Allegany, as well as he had taken in the Farmers' Week at State College. The other prizes are as follows:

2. Eugene Fortner, Port Allegany, Ohio farmer; 3. Lilliam Kinney, Smethport, Ohio farmer; 4. Theodore Erickson, Port Allegany, Ohio farmer; 5. John Long, Port Allegany, Ohio farmer; 6. Anson Lewis, Port Allegany, Ohio farmer; 7. Peter Agliordo, Port Allegany, National Stockman and Farmer; 8. Clarence Hermanson, Port Allegany, National Stockman and Farmer; 9. Leon Ford, Port Allegany, American Agriculturist; 10. Anthony Miller, Smethport, American Agriculturist.

It is very interesting to know that eight prizes of the Agricultural school of Port Allegany, won prizes in the first ten. This certainly ought to be a recommendation for the school.

LET US SHOW YOU

FEEL NEED OF GRUMBLING

One is as likely to grumble against the people one injures as against the people who injure one. One has to grumble at something or other. A man who can find nothing to complain about simply does not know how to enjoy himself, the New Statesman (London) observes.

Now wouldn't your life be exceedingly flat

That is why people like to read letters in the paper, and also helps to explain the huge circulation of one of the notorious weekly papers. The editor was clever enough to see that most people dearly love their grievances, and that if you give them a platform for their grievances you will sell more copies than if you give them only a platform for your own ideals.

We do not mean to say that the mass of human beings are devoid of ideals, but we fear that on ordinary occasions they are a great deal more interested in their complaints. It is just the same with regard to their health. They are much less likely to boast how well they are feeling than how ill they are feeling. A liver complaint means far more to a man than the best digestion. If you allow him he will describe his symptoms—the taste in his mouth, the sudden loss of vision, and what happens if he eats stewed plums. And he tells you all this not in humility but with the vanity of a peacock.

The vanity of an invalid far surpasses any vanity known in healthy men and women. This is, perhaps, one of the compensations of ill health. It gives one something to complain about.

FORESAW CONQUEST OF AIR

But Brother-in-Law of Oliver Cromwell Had Some Ideas That Appear Crude Today.

John Wilkins, who married Robina, sister of Oliver Cromwell, in 1656, had original ideas on flying. He set forth his theories in a book in which he discussed four possible varieties of aviation: By spirits or angels, by the help of fowls, by wings fastened immediately to the body, and by a flying chariot.

Wilkins wrote that the fourth way seemed to him "much more useful than the rest; and that is by a flying chariot, which may be so contrived as to carry a man within it; and though the strength of a spring might perhaps be serviceable for the motion of this engine, yet it were better to have it assisted by the labor of some intelligent mover. And, therefore, if it were made big enough to carry suthem in their several turn might successfully labor in the causing of this motion."

Wilkins was one of the founders of the Royal society. He believed it should be "easy to frame an instrument wherein anyone may sit and give such motion unto it as shall convey him aloft through the air."

Another Crafty Fox.

A reader of the Companion tells us the following story of a clever American fox to match a recently published anecdote of a clever English fox. On a November day, he says, a neighbor of his saw a flock of ducks on the opposite side of a small creek that runs into Shinnecock bay.

While trying to get nearer to the ducks, meanwhile keeping himself well hidden and watching them very cautiously through the grass, he was amazed to see a fox that had waded out about forty feet from shore. It was attracting the ducks by gently waving its tail. In a few minutes it would unquestionably have caught a duck had the man not shot it.—Youth's Companion.

Optimism.

Old Lute Lathers is a great fellow to look on the bright side of things, said a gaunt Missourian, whom the Forecast notes. He was riding to a town on a load of hay the other day when the roads were so muddy that one wheel dropped into a chuck hole, the hay slued, and Lute rolled off and landed on his head in a deep puddle.

"Well, sir," said he, when they had dragged him out, "these 'ere mud roads don't bruise you up like a rock road does. If that had been a hard-surfaced road, it would have plumb broke my neck."—Youth's Companion.

Rush-Pith Lens Cleaner.

Almost any ordinary medium that can be used is likely to smear and even scratch a lens in the cleaning. A very perfect lens cleaner can be made by using the medulla or pith of such plants as sunflower, rush or elder, says the Scientific American. Strips of the dry pith are cut and these are fastened with an adhesive to a piece of cork. The pith may be arranged in rows with small spaces in between. The lens is rubbed gently with the novel cleaner and all marks disappear.

Mexico's Fashionable Drive.

The parade ground of Mexico City is the Avienda de San Francisco. This short street extends from the Mexican White House to the Alameda and is only about 24 feet from curb to curb. Here, at the approach of twilight, every smart equipage in the capital comes. Down the one side of the street and up the other side moves a procession at a slow walk, while everybody looks at everybody else.

There is a large difference between the real Roosevelt—Teddy—and the pinchback imitation, and the acid test is making that plain to the populace.

Forgotten.

We note that the Democratic editors and campaign managers never mention the name of their most illustrious leader of the last half century—Grover Cleveland. Cleveland was nominated over the bitter opposition of Tammany Hall. Cox was Tammany's first choice. The party with Cox for a leader could scarcely be expected to remember a man of Cleveland's stature.

The Federal Trade Commission says profits of 250 per cent are being made on coal landed at Hampton roads. West Virginia operators bring coal to that point at $5.40 a ton, much of which is resold at $14.50 a ton and small users have to pay as high as $21. Here is a pretty clear case for the Department of Justice prosecutors if they could abstain long enough from their investigation of corner grocery proprietors.

In private business, men are willing to put forth great effort to secure efficiency supersalaries in order to get the men they want to help run their business. In the 66th Congress the Republicans cut the Democratic estimates of appropriations to the extent of $2,000,000,000, thus demonstrating their superiority in government management. Naturally, the wise business men of the country are trying to put the Republicans in control of the administrative as well as of the legislative branch of the government. And, in the effort to attain that end, they are gladly contributing liberally to the Republican campaign fund. Even if the fund were $15,000,000, as Mr. Cox alleges, it would be only three-fifths of one per cent of the amount saved in one Congress. If the country is contributing as liberally as Mr. Cox asserts, the people are certainly showing good judgment.

Interment in Order.

Pretender Roosevelt avers that the Democratic party is the essence of the league of nations and Tammany Cox says the Monroe Doctrine is the essence of the league. The league appears to be prolific of essences and effluvia, indicative, no doubt, of the fact trat it has advanced far beyond the stage of rigor mortis. Young Roosevelt's analysis is acceptable to the majority of us. The league is a distillation of the misnamed Democratic party and British imperialism. It is called the British Wilson league because it is 50 per cent British and 50 per cent Wilson, and Wilson is 75 per cent British and 25 per cent personal afflatus. Composed as it is of such essences, the American people do not find it essentir to their peace and prosperity, while the odor of the thing advises that interment is in order.

Why James!

Governor Cox saw fit to refer in his acceptance speech to the politically bigoted minority of the Senate whom he charges with responsibility for the Republican reservations to the league covenant. As a matter of fact support of those reservations came from an overwhelming majority of that body, whose so-called "bigotry" was inspired by decisive vote of the people at the election in November, 1918, when the president's urget plea to send men to the Senate and House in consonance with his own views was so emphatically repudiated.

"Let America Do It."

The mayor of St. Etienne, France, is appealing to Americans of Texas and Oklahoma, formerly of the 36th Division A. E. F., to restore his town to its pre-war prosperity and thrift. It was the men of the 36th who on October 8, 1918, operating with the French, drove the Germans out of St. Etienne. The mayor is simply doing on a small scale what Europe wishes to do on a huge scale—restore and rehabilitate at American expense after we have routed the Germans. However, much as we might be inclined toward philanthropy, Democratic administration has piled up a few billions of dollars of debts, unnecessarily incurred, to be sure, but to which the honor of the nation is pledged, which will give this country plenty to do to maintain our own prosperity; and Republican thrift as exemplified in the last Congress is the safest assurance of such maintenance.

Downing the Drummer

Traveling salesmen will be interested to know that, in the opinion of Candidate Cox, they are a "nuisance to the public," "unmitigated bores," and should be kicked out whenever they intrude upon the presence of the "long suffering business man." These sentiments were expressed by Mr. Cox through the additional columns of the Dayton News on August 15, 1914, and there is no reason to believe that his appraisement of the traveling salesman has been altered in the meantime, in spite of the fact that he is at this moment planning one of the biggst selling campaigns the country has ever witnessed that of disposing of an assortment of Democratic gold bricks to an unsuspecting public.

"The art of salesmanship," declared Gov. Cox, "is a good deal of nuisance to the public. It has come to the point where every business of any magnitude must employ a purchasing agent, whose time is largely wasted by men who want to sell him something and from whom he has no intention of buying. Yet he must treat them courteously and listen to long rigmaroles in which he is not the least interested.

"If there is no purchasing agent somebody else has to submit to innumerable interruptions of salesmen who are unmitigated bores. If a man would exercise the first impulses of his heart, he would kick them out of his office if they did not take the first hint. That the salesman escapes with a whole skin in every instance speaks volumes for the good nature of the long-suffering business man."

* * * * * *

The difference between Harding and Cox is the difference betweeen a statesman and a demagogue, between a conservative and a radical, between an American and an internationalist, between a gentleman and a boor.

USED BY ANCIENT PHYSICIAN

Graeco-Roman Medical and Surgical Instruments of Bronze Now in Johns Hopkins University.

William H. Buckler, who served on the staff of the American embassy in London during the war, has presented to the Archeologist museum of Johns Hopkins university, of which he was a former trustee, a set of ancient Graeco-Roman medical and surgical instruments found two years ago near Kolophon, in Asia Minor.

The collection was on exhibition in London and was formerly in the possession of the late Alfred O. Van Lennep, Dutch vice consul in Smyrna, who owned a large estate near Kolophon and was well acquainted with the excavations and discoveries in that vicinity.

The instruments, 36 in number, are all of bronze, with but one exception. They were probably the property of some Roman physician living in Asia Minor in the first or second century A. D., and the fact that they were all found in one place is doubtless explained, in the opinion of experts, by the ancient custom of burying a person's worldly possessions with him.

The set includes surgical knives and elevators, forceps, tenacula (sharp hooks), a unique drill bow, for use in injuries and diseases of the skull, scoops, probes and a cautery.

SHEPHERD BECAME A PRINCE

Emir Feisal of Arabia began life as a dirty little shepherd boy. His mother was an Arabian girl of Mecca and a cousin of his father. When Feisal was still a baby Shereef Hussein sent him into the desert to live with a Bedouin tribe, because it is considered more wholesome for a boy to grow up in the open desert country than in a city or village. In Constantinople Feisal contracted consumption, writes Lowell Thomas in Asia, but since then the desert has taken it out of him, although he is still very thin and has a waist only 21 inches in circumference. He smokes cigarettes day and night and eats sparingly. Among the tribes he is celebrated as an unusually fine shot and a good horseman and camel rider. Feisal is enlightened and thoroughly modern in his views. His people follow him, not through fear, but because they love him. He is much too kind and liberal-minded to rule as an oriental despot of the old school and he may be depended upon to usher in an entirely new order of things for his people.

Wouldn't Wash.

Chatting with Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous antarctic explorer, he told me that one of the best stories he has heard concerns a famous artist.

He was showing a lady visitor over his studio one day and produced a charming little landscape, indicating that there was a story behind it. "I was out in the forest," he explained. "I had all my materials with me except an empty canvas. I came upon a subject that enchanted me, and felt I must record it. I was determined not to be baffled, so I took out my handkerchief, stretched it across my case, and painted on that."

The lady looked at the handkerchief and then turned a shocked face to the artist. "You'll never be able to wash that paint out," she said.—London Tit-Bits.

Encourage the Swallow.

If you want to free the neighborhood of mosquitoes encourage swallows to make themselves at home, says the American Forestry association of Washington. These birds feed almost entirely upon obnoxious insects and they will do much toward protecting orchards and other trees from insect pests. No better investment can be made, therefore, than some houses set out for martins and other swallows. Of the blue swallows the purple martin is the largest, the male being entirely blue above and below, while the female is blue above with a gray breast. Swallows are highly migratory, most of them spending the winter in South America.

Scientific Triumph.

Students of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh placed a radio transmitter in Central hall to send out the music of an orchestra playing in the hall to scores of radio students in the district listening in. Professor Rath, hearing the music in the experiment station of the university, half a mile away, succeeded by the use of a magnavox—an instrument to increase the sound from a radio receiver—and two strings of electric wires, in passing it on a half-mile to the Heinz house, where students danced to it.

The Press Agent's Work.

The old-time press agent is now known as a "publicity expert" and his business has greatly developed in recent years. Outside of the regular theatrical press agents, every American city has a small army of men who find lucrative employment in giving publicity to financial and industrial enterprises, philanthropic and educational institutions, hotels and restaurants, and a wide variety of other things that depend for their success upon the patronage of the public.

FUTURE AUTO MOTIVE POWER

Interesting Speculation as to What Will Take the Place of Fast-Diminishing Gasoline.

Gasoline will continue to go up in price. A few years from now we shall have to use something else as fuel for our automobiles. The question is, what?

The government bureau of mines thinks that we shall get the requisite substitute from coal. In every city there will be "by-product coke ovens," which will extract from the coal a light oil available for the purpose. The coke can then be used in our furnaces and for other ordinary fuel purposes.

One ton of soft coal in the process of coking yields about three gallons of oil first rate for motor fuel. At present prices the heat in the oil has 20 times the commercial value of the same amount of heat in the form of coal.

Germany during part of the war was practically shut off from every supply of mineral oil. She depended for her motor fuel entirely on coal, putting the latter through by-product coking plants. Before long we shall be obliged to do the same thing in the United States.

Part of the light oil in coal is toluol, which in time of war is needed for the manufacture of TNT. Modern warfare requires enormous quantities of the substance for making high-explosive shells. During the first part of the war the allies came near defeat for lack of it.

Another by-product from the coking of one ton of soft coal is 5,000 cubic feet of gas, available for cooking and other household uses. The coke itself makes an admirable smokeless fuel for furnaces, if people could only be persuaded to use it.

SEES INFLUENCE AS HANDICAP

Influence! The worst thing that can happen to a man is to start life with influence. So declared Charles M. Schwab in a talk to Princeton students upon how to succeed in business, remarks Leslie's. "Young fellows who excuse their failure on the score of having no influential friend to give them a boost get cold comfort from Mr. Schwab, who has come up from the ranks, and who now goes so far as to advise any young man who has an influence not to use it to get a start. Mr. Schwab laid down as the first fundamental of a successful life, "Unimpeachable integrity." Character is the biggest asset in business. A whole array of brilliant qualities will not take the place of this cornerstone of enduring success. The whole tenor of Mr. Schwab's heart-to-heart talk was a new emphasis on the old-fashioned qualities of loyalty, industry and persistence. The young man who possesses these traits is bound to succeed, for opportunity was never so great as it is today. No industry is more highly organized than the steel industry, yet with all the progress made in the last 20 years the industry is far from its zenith. So great is the magnitude of modern industry in all branches that opportunities for leadership, instead of decreasing as some imagine, have actually increased in proportion as industry itself has grown.

Big Trade in Old Papers.

A curious item of commercial news is that the east coast district of the island of Sumatra in 1918 imported 886,835 pounds of "second-hand newspapers" from the United States. Imports of the same kind of merchandise from January 1 to September 1, of last year, were 572,585 pounds. The papers are wanted to cover young sprouts of rubber trees and sugar cane. The climate of the island is very hot—as might be surmised from the circumstance that the equator runs through the middle of it—and, to prevent the sprouts burning up in the fierce sunshine, sheets of paper are spread over them. Old newspapers serve the purpose very well, each sheet being held down with stones at the corners. In Hawaii the same method of protection is adopted, but in that archipelago sheets of rice paper, imported from Japan, are used.

Evolution of Man Foreseen.

In one of his recent lectures Sir Oliver Lodge, eminent English scientist, announced that the earth would probably continue to exist for 20,000,000 years more. These are, of course, round numbers. Some scientists estimate that the earth will live for ten times this age. There have been animals of one kind and another on this planet for fully this length of time. The dinosaurs are believed to have lived through some such period. The age of man, which is probably only a few thousand years, seems the merest trifle by comparison. When we consider how man has developed during recorded history, which is less than ten thousand years, we may hope that he will evolve to an infinitely finer type in the future.—Boys' Life.

Rhubarb.

A certain East side man was cutting the dock weed in his back yard with a scythe, and his eight-year-old son was watching, seemingly engrossed in thought. Presently he asked: "Papa, why does God make dockweed?" On receiving no satisfactory reply he set to thinking again. In a few minutes he looked up again with a smile all over his face. This was his explanation: "I'll bet God got mixed up when he was making things and thought this was rhubarb."—Indianapolis News.

RELY TOO MUCH ON MACHINES

Writer Laments the Lack of Personal Responsibility Discernible Among the World's Workers.

Writing in the Scientific Monthly on the value of handicraft in the re-education of wounded soldiers, Capt. Frank A. Waugh of the sanitary corps, U. S. A., says:

"It is a great defect of modern society that it depends too much on machinery. Everything we touch is machine-made. The common laborer in particular hardly ever sees or touches anything but machine-made objects. He begins life in a machine-made go-cart, eats canned food from a machine-made table with a stamped-steel knife, fork and spoon, dies in the hospital in a machine-made bed, is buried with a machine-made coffin and marked with a machine-made tombstone. When such a man once makes with his own hands a good basket or leather pocketbook he begins to realize the value of honest craftmanship—the place of personal responsibility in the day's labor. This is a most fundamental element in human psychology now largely lost in a mechanical world where objects are made by machines, not by men. The men only feed the machines and are themselves controlled by another social machine called a labor union."

PERMANENT "NO MAN'S LAND"

Sites of Probably One Hundred Villages in France Too Dangerous to Use Again.

Fifteen villages in the Aisne district, destroyed by war, will never be rebuilt. There are 17 towns in the Marne district which will be abandoned, and probably 100 in all of France. For many years, at least, the soil on which the villages stood will not even be tilled. It will become a permanent No Man's land.

According to government advices, the sites of these villages are too dangerous to be used again. In order to avoid loss of life the government has purchased the land on which the villages stood and will keep possession of it until it can be made safe.

These sites are the ones often fought over, on which the ground has been turned over and over again, burying explosives of all kinds to unknown depths. There is no trace of buildings left in the 15 villages, so the refugees faced more than the usual hardships. They returned, however, and lived in the worst makeshift caves and dugouts.

Only signs maintained by the government will mark the sites of the villages, warning people of the lurking dangers.—Stars and Stripes.

Chinese Silk Trade.

The American demand for silk in China has greatly increased in the last few years until at the present time about 25 per cent of the Chinese silk is sent to the United States. This is the result of American enterprise more than that of the Chinese. The Japanese silks had been in favor for a long time with the manufacturers of this country, but it was well understood that the quality of the Chinese was superior, but it was not adapted for use in this country because of the manner in which it was woven. An American manufacturer secured a moving picture reel showing the Japanese methods of manufacture, and as a result the Chinamen were induced to change theirs to a system to conform with the demands of the occidental customers, and the industry has accordingly taken a great jump.

Profitable Investment.

There was once a noble college man, says Harper's Weekly, who was noted for the profusion with which he spent, wasted and lost money in everything he did, and who kept up the practice for some years in business, after he left his Alma Mater. He disappeared for a few years, and when found again he was working on a farm. A friend asked how he was getting on, and he replied with enthusiasm:

"Splendidly! Top wave of prosperity!"

"But, man, you don't mean that you're making money on this farm?"

"Oh, no! I never expect to make any money. But I'm losing it slower than I ever did before!"

No Tipping Here.

When I first arrived in Venice I noticed large printed announcements in my hotel and in the restaurants, "Vietate la Mancie," and on inquiry I found this meant "tips forbidden," that all over Venice tipping has been abolished, says a writer in the London Daily Mail.

The same rule applies more or less in other Italian cities, but in none, so far as I have seen, so completely and actually as in Venice. The notices are "absolutely" forbidden, others "rigorously" or "severely" forbidden, or "prohibited," others explain more fully that after August 1 tips are "abolished."

Spoiled Dad's Good Intention.

Army life at one time appealed to Sir Hamar Greenwood, recently named chief secretary for Ireland. He has told how at sixteen years of age he ran away from his Canadian home to join the army. His father followed, and found his young hopeful doing sentry duty with all the pride and jauntiness of a born soldier. "The old gentleman was for giving me a sound thrashing then and there," says Sir Hamar. "But I turned out the guard and had him arrested for attempting to rush the sentry."

USE LESS SUGAR FOR GOOD JELLY

Canning Experts of United States Department of Agriculture Give Suggestions.

PROPER QUANTITY OF JUICE

Among Other Materials Which Can Be Used for Sweetening Are Honey, Maple Sirup, Corn Sugar, Molasses and Other Sirups.

A good jelly should be bright, clear, and of an attractive color. When removed from the glass it should retain the shape of the mold. Jelly of the right consistency can be cut with a distinct cleavage, retaining the angles where cut. It should sparkle and be tender enough to quiver without breaking.

Wash the fruits, remove stems, and cut large fruits into pieces. With berries, grapes, and currants add one cupful of water for each pound of fruit. For apples, quinces, and other hard fruits add three cupfuls of water to each pound of sliced fruit. Cook until tender. Fruit juices flow more freely when heated.

As soon as the fruit is tender it should be put into a jelly bag and allowed to drip. If the fruit is overcooked, a cloudy jelly is apt to result.

Can Be Made With Less Sugar.

Good jellies can be made with much less sugar than many housekeepers thought possible a few years ago. Some persons like these products made with less sugar better than the old-fashioned kinds that were sometimes so sweet that the flavor of the fruit was spoiled. Canning experts of the United States department of agriculture give the following suggestions for using sugar economically:

Reduce the amount of sugar ordinarily used by one-fifth or one-fourth—that is, use four-fifths, or three-fourths cupful of sugar instead of the whole cup called for in the recipe. In the case of non-acid fruits particularly, the absence of sugar will be less noticeable if one-fourth teaspoonful of salt is added for each cupful of fruit juice. The salty taste will disappear after the product has stood for a few weeks, but the flavor will be richer than if the salt were not used.

Another way to save sugar is to substitute for part of the granulated sugar called for in the recipe, honey, maple sirup, corn sugar, molasses, the new malt sirups, which are superior to those formerly on the market, or one of the other sirups sold under various trade names. Some of these sweeteners have a distinctive flavor, and at first it may be best to use those only with fruits that have a pronounced flavor of their own, such as grapes, cranberries, plums, currants, and loganberries.

Quantity of Juice for Jelly.

About two quarts of juice boiled rapidly in a shallow pan gives a jelly with better color and consistency.

When the proportion of sugar to juice has been determined, measure the fruit juice and place over the fire to cook. When the juice begins to boil add the sugar immediately and stir until the sugar is dissolved. When the sugar is dissolved cook the juice as rapidly as possible. Long, slow cooking tends to darken the product and to destroy the pectin, which will cause the jelly to be less firm.

A good means of determining when the cooking is finished is to test the juice with a spoon or paddle. Dip the spoon in the boiling sirup, remove, cool by moving it back and forth for a few seconds, and then allow the jelly to drip from it. As long as there is sirup present, it will run from the spoon. When the jelly point is reached, it will break from the spoon in flakes or sheets. Remove from the fire immediately and skim. Skimming at this time saves waste. After skimming pour at once into hot, scalded glasses and set aside to cool. Cool as rapidly as possible.

For Cleaning a Basin.

To clean a basin or bathtub put a little coarse salt into the dampened tub or basin, and then rub it over lightly with a cloth dipped in turpentine.

CONDITION OF FEET OF BIG IMPORTANCE

Well-Fitting Shoes Are of First Consideration.

Hose Should Be Long Enough to Give Toes Free Play and Not Bothered by Uneven Darns—Put Plaster on Tender Spot.

(By United States Public Health Service.)

The pleasures of walking or standing depends to a large extent on the condition of the feet.

The importance of well-fitting shoes cannot be over-estimated. The shoes should have heavy soles, moderate heels, and be neither tight nor loose. A laced shoe is best under ordinary circumstances, but in certain occupations where changes may have to be made quickly, a congress gaiter meets conditions best.

New and stiff shoes are almost sure to be very uncomfortable; shoes should be worn sufficiently beforehand so that they will adapt themselves to the shape of the wearer's feet and be comfortable.

All hose should be long enough to give the toes free play. Great care should be taken to have all darns smooth.

After the day's work the feet should be carefully washed and dried. Air the hose so as to have them dry when they are to be put on again. The shoes should be placed so that they can be well dried out before replacing on the feet.

If the feet are swollen or hot, or tend to be sensitive (tender), wash them in salt water or rub with medicated alcohol and dry before putting on hose. Dust with talcum powder and put some of the powder on the hose and into the shoes.

A change of hose and shoes—by having two pair—alternating daily, is very comfortable when much standing or walking has to be done.

Cover tender spots with surgeon's "zo" plaster, applied directly, if walking must be continued and it is inconvenient to change hose or shoes.

Blisters are best treated by washing the feet thoroughly in hot water, then taking a clean needle and pricking through the skin—not directly into the blister—and gently pressing out fluid till blister is flat.

To toughen and harden the feet soak them for some time in a dish containing cold tannic acid solution—a tablespoonful of acid to two quarts of water. A solution of medicated alcohol and salt answers the same purpose.

MANNER OF HOUSE CLEANING

Many of the common time-honored methods of house cleaning are wrong in principle and faulty in practice. Dry sweeping and dusting is often worse than useless. Scrubbing with soap and water, wiping with damp cloths, and thorough prolonged airings are of decided value. Vacuum cleaners are very useful but their use is not within reach of everybody.

In dusting, a damp rag should be used, subsequently washing the rag out in warm soap suds. Some surfaces such as walls, furniture, metal beds, doors and other wood work may advantageously be wiped off with a rag moistened with turpentine, kerosene, or paraffine oil.

Nothing can approach sunlight combined with airing for a simple efficacious disinfectant. It is, therefore, a good plan to place clothing, blankets, rugs, draperies and similar goods in the open air in the sun light, beating and brushing out the dust before returning them to their place in the house.

A can of paint for use in the kitchen and other places where the woodwork and walls are much subject to wear, and perhaps a coat of white wash in the cellar will go a long ways to give the finishing touches to the house cleaning. Clean-up and paint-up is a very useful slogan.

DON'T USE CANNING POWDERS

In some communities there is a wide-spread use of canning powder. Both boric and salicylic acid are bought from druggists for this purpose. Large quantities of these acids are also sold at a high price under fanciful canning compound names.

The United States department of agriculture warns against the use of any preserving powder or canning compound. Their use may be attended with serious effects upon digestion and health. It is entirely practicable to "put up" fruits and vegetables, so that they will keep indefinitely by processing the products with heat. There is no reason for taking the risk of using canning powders.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Aluminum pots, pans or other utensils should never be washed in water containing sal-soda.

If you wish to dry clothes in a hurry when it is raining, hang them in the house and turn on the electric fan.

LOVE HOLDS THESE CLUB MEMBERS TOGETHER

In a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital, where thousands of nameless babies first see the light of day. (Insert) Play time in the nursery of a Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital.

Out-of-Love Club members, whose little nameless babies first saw the light of day in a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital, meet once a month in each of the twenty-three cities in this country in which there is a Salvation Army Rescue Home. They discuss their problems, their work, their gratitude to the organization that sheltered them when they were friendless, their plans for the future.

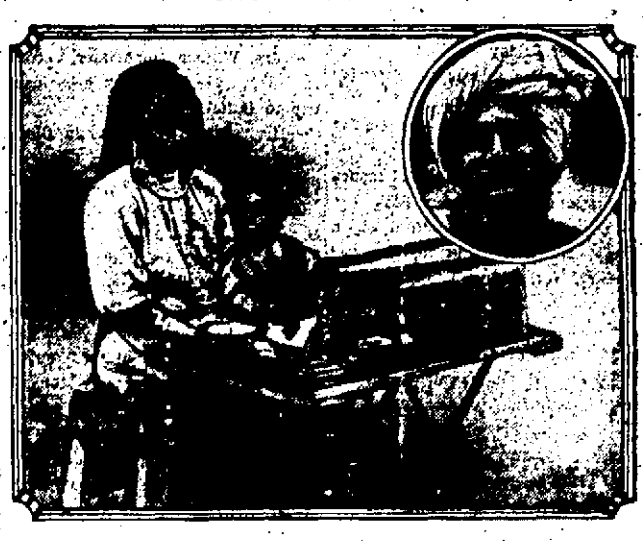
The members of the club, which is one of the biggest women's organizations in the country, numbering more than 30,000, were all at one time inmates of a Salvation Army Rescue Home for unfortunate women.

They are all employed now in positions which the Salvation Army has found for them, and they are all making good. They come back from time to time to the meetings of their club to help the girls who are still inmates of the institutions, to bring a little sunshine into their lives and give them new hope for the future.

This is the system that the Salvation Army uses to keep in touch with the girls who have passed out of the Rescue Homes. This is one of the reasons why more than 85 per cent of all the women who are graduates of the Army's twenty-six institutions for erring girls are now supporting themselves and their children and leading self-respecting lives.

The Salvation Army Rescue Homes are one of the many activities to be supported by the Salvation Army's $10,000,000 Home Service Fund, for which an appeal will be made from May 10 to 20.

INDIAN EX-CRIMINALS SPIN SALVATION WITH SILKEN THREAD



Hindoo woman reeling silk under Salvation Army tutelage. (Insert) Former criminal chief who has been led to better ways by the Salvationists.

Sin, silk and salvation form a combination that is working miracles beneath the tropic sun of India.

Sin has rocked in the very cradles of the criminal tribesmen for centuries. That same vicious system of caste which has sentenced the son of a weaver to weave and the son of a storekeeper to keep store has through ages condemned the son of a criminal tribesman to rustle cattle, pillage and commit murder.

But now the Salvation Army by using silk to take the sin out of the "crim" is bringing about both the material and spiritual salvation of a people.

These criminal tribesmen, gathered into settlements by the British government, were taken in hand by the Salvationists, were taught to care for the mulberry trees, to rear the silk worms, to reel and weave the silk. They have ceased to be criminals. They have become expert weavers, and they like their new jobs. They work at them more industriously than they ever did at banditry. And they are now reeling and weaving more than a ton of raw silk a month.

In each country the Salvation Army adapts its methods to the peculiar needs. Here in the United States it does a great work among the prisoners in penitentiaries. It maintains nurseries in the slums, rescue homes and maternity hospitals, industrial and Americanization centers and institutions of many other kinds. To support these during next year the Army will ask the people of this country to contribute $10,000,000 during its 1920 Home Service appeal from May 10 to May 20.

EGYPT'S BOOK OF THE DEAD

Contents Throw Interesting Light on the Morals of the People of That Ancient Period.

"Book of the Dead," more properly called the Book of the Manifestation of Light is the name of the most famous book of the ancient Egyptians, according to the Detroit News. It dates from the fourth dynasty, 3732 to 3556 B. C., and is written in Egyptian hieroglyphics. It contains prayers and exorcisms for the benefit of the soul on its long perilous journeys in the lower world, as well as minute instructions by which it may vanquish the frightful monsters that will assail it before reaching the first gates of heaven.

The text of the "Book of the Dead," carefully revised and with illustrations, was published by M. Edouard Naville in 1886 translations also having appeared in several European languages. The following sentences from the book, in the soul's defense before Osiris, are interesting as throwing light on Egyptian morals: "I have not been intoxicated; I have not told secrets; I have not told falsehoods; I have not defrauded; I have not slandered; I have not caused tears; I have given food to the hungry, drink to the thirsty and clothes to the naked."

It Followed.

When Aunt Helen kept company with a young lieutenant in the army she prevailed on her ten-year-old nephew to wear a soldier overcoat. The young lieutenant was succeeded by a boy scout executive, and Bobby received a boy scout uniform, which he had to wear to please auntie.

But the boy scout executive and Aunt Helen have disagreed and Bobby has been much interested in knowing who will be his successor in winning Aunt Helen's attentions. The other day he made a discovery, and came running in the house to tell mother about it.

"Oh, mother," he began, "you might as well get me a Prince Albert coat, a white vest and a tie. Aunt Helen is beginning to warm up to the minister."—Indianapolis News.

Sidetracked.

Fire runs have always been my pet worry when driving a car, so when I heard the excited clanging of a bell while riding through one of the city parks recently I pulled over to the curb, almost running into a lamp post in my rush. Then I turned around to watch the engines and discovered two small boys on a pushmobile holding the center of the boulevard and working a large bell overtime while a Sunday crowd laughed at the joke which was certainly on me.—Exchange.

YOUR CHANCE TO BECOME BOND HOLDER OF HEALTH

A new feature of the Christmas Red Cross Seal Campaign this fall is the Health Bond. Health Bonds are used as substitutes for seals in cases where persons do not care to accept seals, at one cent each, for the amount of their subscription. The seals come in denominations of five, ten, twenty-five, fifty and one hundred dollars.

The Health Bonds can be bought by a person who wishes to devote any one of the sums mentioned to the fight on tuberculosis and the improving of the public health and does not want seals.

Liberty Bonds return interest in money, Health Bonds return interest in good health, for Health Bonds will help to improve the health of your community and your neighbors, and your health depends partly upon the health of your neighbors.

Seashore and Mountain.

I have lived by the seashore and by the mountains. No, I am not going to say which is best. The one where your place is is the best for you. But this difference there is: You can domesticate mountains, but the sea is "ferne naturae." You may have a hut, or know the owner of one, on the mountain side; you see a light halfway up its ascent in the evening, and you know there is a home, and you might share it. You have noted certain trees, perhaps; you know the particular zone where the hemlocks look so black in October, when the maples and beeches have faded. All its reliefs and intaglios have electrotyped themselves in the medallions that hang round the walls of your memory's chamber. The sea remembers nothing.—Holmes.

THE BOYS' MAGAZINE, the only product of this corporation, was established in January, 1910. Not a single issue has been skipped.

Owing to increased production costs the subscription price has just been advanced from $1.50 to $2.00 a year. The advertising rate is being advanced from $455.00 to $544.00 a page. This increase in the advertising rate alone will mean over $1,000.00 a month additional revenue from this department. Even at this early date (September 18, 1920), we have scheduled for our October, November and December, 1920 issues over $12,000.00 worth of advertising.

Invocation pronounced by Rev. Wm Van Dyke.

H. H. Redfield, member of the good roads committee, announced that $100 had been added to the fund. The money had been turned over to John Cooper of Backus with instructions to spend $300 putting cinders on the Smethport-Ormsby road.

A. S. Browne of Buffalo addressed the Conopus Club, telling of the progress being made in organizing other clubs. He stated that Mr. Guy Dorman had opened an office at Dallas, Texas., which would be a subsidiary office to the Buffalo headquarters.

Mr. T. W. Harris of Buffalo addressed the club on the housing problem and civics.

At the request of the president an applause was given Miss E. M. Mackey.

Both Mr. T. F. Hungiville and Mr. Backus stated that their committee would have a report to make within the next two weeks.

CENTER OF HUN WAR POWER

Ruhrort, which had the largest river harbor in Europe, and which included the Ruhr basin, was the power plant of Germany's former industrial machine and mighty war engine.

Between the Rhine and Ruhr is Duisburg, city of rolling mills, foundries and factories. This beehive of industry was once a university town, but the school was supplanted by factories. Duisburg is connected with the Ruhr by a canal.

Farther up the Ruhr is Witten, important not only for its steel, but also for beer, soap and chemicals. The Ruhr basin coal fields not only were important to Germany because of their heavy production, but because they alone were accessible for water importation of ores. A canal connected Dortmund, a city of the Ruhr basin, with the Ems river, thus affording an outlet to the North sea at Emden. The Ruhr was made navigable from the Rhine to Witten, some 35 miles, by means of locks.

Connoisseur of Feminine Beauties.

An extraordinary request from a professor of anthropology in Vienna was received by the Western Australian minister for education, Mr. Colebatch. This Austrian professor appeals to the minister "as a connoisseur of feminine beauties" for photographs of several hundreds of the most beautiful women in Western Australia. He intends to publish these photographs in an illustrated catalogue of the beauties of all countries. While Mr. Colebatch's sense of humor has come to his assistance and prevented him from sending the extremely blunt replies vouchsafed trade letters from Austria and Germany, it may be understood without fear of contradiction that the Viennese professor will not publish the Western Australia reply. If a selection of press comments on the professor were forwarded to him he would recognize that Western Australia girls have the knack of saying the right thing in the right way at the right time.
